For a law firm that covers a wide range of general business law, look no further than Duckor Spradling Metzger & Wynne (DSMW). Founded in 1977, the firm represents clients in both litigation and corporate matters. This full-service, AV-rated firm's experience and expertise in handling commercial litigation, healthcare, mergers and acquisitions, and business transactions of all sorts and sizes assures clients of diligent and value-based representation in connection with legal needs that businesses typically encounter.

Gary Spradling, cofounder of the firm, says many of its clients reflect the San Diego business community, particularly closely held businesses. And word of mouth from existing clients continues to build DSMW's client base.

What makes the firm unique are the abilities of its lawyers to handle legal issues in today's complex business and regulatory environment, especially in the healthcare world. DSMW represents physicians, IPAs, hospices, laboratories, surgery centers, and outpatient clinics on issues such as entity formation, compliance, Medicare audits, and billing disputes.

The breadth of DSMW's practice allows it to represent individuals, small businesses, and larg-
